

Au Clair De La Lune

Traditional French
melody attribute to
Jean-Baptiste Lully

By the light of the moon My friend Pier - rot Lend me your pen

To write a word My cand - le is dead I have no more fire

Op - en your door By me For the love of God

2. By the light of the moon,
Pierrot replied
I don't have any pen,
I am in my bed
Go to the neighbor's,
I think she's there
Because in her kitchen
Someone is using the lighter

3. By the light of the moon
likable Lubin
Knocks on the brunette's door
she soon responds
Who's knocking like that?
He then replies
Open your door for the God of Love!

4. By the light of the moon
One could barely see
The pen was looked for
The light was looked for
With all that looking
I don't know what was found
But I do know that the door
Was shut behind them.
